PAVILION GOES

Work Ordered to Start at Once on Our New Pavilion and Bath House

The long expected answer from Mr. Huntington regarding the Pavilion and Bath House Improvements has been received. Mr. Huntington has decided the decision of the matter entirely to President Burnsey, and that gentleman visited Redondo yesterday for the purpose of again looking over the ground and consulting further with Mr. Burnett on the subject.

The result of this conference was as follows: The Pavilion and Bath House will be started immediately, and rushed to completion with all possible speed.

Mr. Edward C. Kent of Los Angeles will be the architect, and the designs recently published in the Reflex will be adopted.

The Company will probably do the work by direct labor, and not by contract. It has not yet decided who will have direct charge of the erection.

Tenants who are forced to move while the buildings are under construction, will be provided with temporary quarters as far as possible. The ground will be leased to Mr. M. Mayer and Messrs. Adloff & Hauervaa for the erection of a new Casino on the site of the old one, to cost about $15,000. This building will be 40 feet distant from the Pavilion, and entirely separate from the Company buildings, but the plans will be approved by the Company, and the architecture will harmonize with the other improvements. Mr. Kent has been commissioned by the lessees to prepare the plans for this building.

The Pacific Coast Steamship Company will move its waiting-room to the north side of wharf No. 1, and enlarge it to double its present capacity.

There will be a clean sweep of all the old buildings south of Wharf No. 1, including the surf bath house.

The new bath house will be arranged for both surf and plunge bathing, and will be located south of the new Casino. It is the intention to have a continuous flow of pure warm salt water from the condensers of the new Huntington power plant in North-Redondo, which will make it the most popular bathing place on this coast.

The intention at present is to have a broad promenade on the ocean side of the new buildings, extending from Wharf No. 1 to the bathing beach, and thence to Wharf No. 2. This will be the finest "board walk" on the Pacific Coast.

The buildings will be much more costly than at first estimated, and no expense will be spared to make them superior to anything of the kind in California. The total expense for the work now authorized will be much more than originally anticipated, other improvements being contemplated.

The Los Angeles & Redondo Railway has ordered material for eight new passenger cars, which will be longer, wider, and faster than the present cars, and will be equipped with "Multiple Unit Control" for operation in trains. These cars, it is expected, will be built at the Company's shops here in Redondo, and will be ready in time for the summer business. They will be the handsomest cars running out of Los Angeles, and will in all probability make the trip to Redondo Beach via the new Moneta Avenue Short Line in about 15 minutes.

This information, The Reflex is confident will be the most welcome thing we could possibly publish and we take great pleasure in giving a copy of this extra to everybody in the city. Get out and hustle now for the Greater Redondo. If we don't make Rome howl now, it's not our fault, and this information can be banked on correct.

WILL BE A MODEL.

New Department Store for Los Angeles—Bullock's Opens Soon.

The opening of Bullock's department store at Seventh and Broadway in Los Angeles will give to the people of Southern California one of the most modern store buildings west of Chicago, with an equipment second to no similar institution in any of the large eastern cities.

A representative of this paper visited the new store (which, by the way, will be open for business in a few days) and found an amazingly complete store building in which many ideas that are new to this section of the country are being carried out. The Palm Garden and children's skyline play ground, located on the roof, is a decided innovation, and is sure to prove popular with both visitors and shopping tourists. From the palm garden one may overlook the surrounding buildings, and may obtain an unobstructed view of the entire country, from mountain to seashore. The play ground will naturally attract the little folks, as it will be fitted out with hobby horses, swings and many other devices for the entertainment of the youngsters.

Almost the entire seventh floor will be used for an immense restaurant, where a first-class menu will be served at popular prices; and the lunch counter patron has not been slighted. Then there is a men's grill, which will undoubtedly be well patronized. In fact, the management has evidently considered the wants of the epicure as well as the needs of the shopper. The kitchen is as large as many hotel dining rooms.

A unique feature on the third floor is a barber shop, where a man may stop and get a shave and hair cut, if he desires, while his wife is attending to her shopping; or, a mother may have her boy's hair cut while she is doing her trading. The arrangement of departments is very pleasing; starting with the house furnishing goods and kitchen ware in the basement, which is one of the most attractive salesrooms we have ever seen, being light, spacious and splendidly ventilated. The same can be said of the entire seven floors. One of the most important and pleasing features of this store is the great area of plate and prismatic glass, which lets in floods of California sunshine on every floor.

The general and business offices, located on the seventh floor, promise to be beyond the ordinary store offices in point of arrangement and furnishings.

The big show windows are the finest on the Coast and will no doubt form a great attraction to the public. The merchandise now being received bears the trade mark of well known high grade makers, and every line of goods will be of the best.

The opening date has not been announced, but the public is assured an elaborate reception. Los Angeles has many show places, but none, in our opinion, that will appeal to more people than Bullock's, Seventh and Broadway.

It may sound paradoxical to say that "The Louisville Lyre" tells the truth, but no Kansas editor will doubt the genuineness of the following:

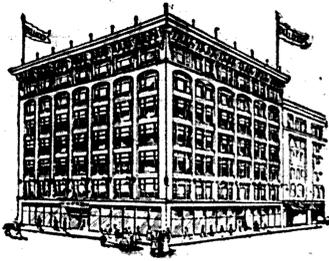

"As only one of the proprietors is at home this week we apologize for all mistakes made and say they were inexcusable, as all an editor has to do is to hunt news and clean rollers and set type, sweep the floor and write short items and fold papers, and talk to visitors and write wrappers and make the paste and mail the papers and carry and saw wood and read the proof, hunt the shears and dodge the bills and be joshed by the whole town."—Kansas City Journal.

THE THEATRES.

Grand Opera House.

E. J. Carpenter's drama of the mining camps "At Cripple Creek" is the Grand Opera House offering for the week of February 24th. This is a melodrama of the old school, popular before Owen Davis and Theodore Kremer brought melodrama into disrepute. It was written by Hal Reid, which is another way of saying that there is something doing every minute. "At Cripple Creek" is a play with a plot. It has a real story, of interesting events, probable incidents and amusing episodes, presented by a company of capable actors. The scene is laid among the rugged beauties of the Colorado mountains, and the characters are those of the mining camps of twenty years ago. Accident and adventure—plot and counterplot interspersed with amusing comedy situations, miners, Indians and gamblers—these are the components of this real drama of the west in the days when the west was wild and woolly.

The Orpheum.

High class music, novel orchestration and odd scenic effects characterize the act of the Lasky-Rolfe Quintet, who are head-lined for the week of February 25th at the Orpheum. Their act is said to be the only one in vaudeville which has been rehearsed and staged by the famous composer, Victor Herbert.

Nellie Beaumont and her company offer a comedy entitled "My Busy Day," in which this clever comedienne is seen as an actress seeking a divorce. She is supported by Arthur Van and M. I. Zorn.

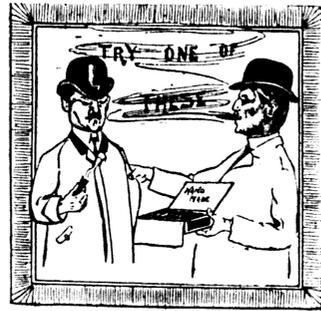

The eight Bedouin Arabs, whirlwind acrobats well known to Orpheumites, return for a two weeks' engagement. They will create the usual sensation.

Eleanor Falke, a dainty little singer who first appeared in the spotlight in "Floradora," comes with a program of songs as pretty and dainty as herself.

Patrice will repeat last week's success in a new playlet, "A New Year's Dream."

Little "Hip," Hickey and Nelson, and Happy Jack Gardner remain another week.

A tank car exploded last Thursday at Simons station, on the line of the Santa Fe railway, a few miles east of Downey. The loss was $5,000, and the watchman, D. K. Ausland, who was standing near the tank at the time of the explosion, was badly burned about the face.

The first stone to mark a grave in the new Inglewood Park cemetery stands on the hill near the spot where will soon be erected the stone chapel and crematory. It is the beginning. If, as has been stated unofficially, two of the city cemeteries are to be moved to the Inglewood Park cemetery in the near future, it will not take long to dot all of the space now in grass, with headstones and monuments.

Gardena Lodge, F. & A. M., installed their officers last Tuesday night. D. R. Weller, district inspector, of Los Angeles, was installing officer. Several Masons from Redondo, San Pedro, and Mason's wives and members of the Eastern Star were guests at the installation and banquet. Covers were laid for over seventy and the supper was in charge of the Ladies' Aid of Moneta.

The Pacific Hive No. 46, Maccabees of Los Angeles, held public installation at the Elks' Hall, their State Commander, Lady Adydelotte, being installing officer. Among those present were a number of Redondo Maccabees—Mrs. M. V. Fisher, Fred Bates, Fannie Easterday, C. C. Palmer, J. Scott, J. C. Thomas and Misses Bessie Hathway, Nita Thomas and Jessie Arnold.

The entertainment given at the Masonic Hall last Thursday evening was well attended, there being about two hundred present. The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church gave Redondo a unique and splendid program, and the receipts therefrom, including the baby show in the afternoon, were over forty dollars, all of which will be applied on the handsome new organ.

A thorough soaking rain set in yesterday and has continued today with more or less persistence. It will do a world of good to growing crops throughout the country, where in many places the need of it was beginning to be felt. It may prove disastrous in some localities where seeding had not been completed, but on the whole it is very welcome.

The Lady Maccabees held a special session Saturday afternoon in honor of State Commander Lady Adydelotte. In the routine business four applications were balloted upon and five new applications were received. Mrs. Alice Fisher, Lady Commander of the local hive, also entertained at her home Saturday in honor of the visitor.

Among the list of marriage licenses granted during the week at the county clerk's office, appears the following: KORTHE-DIROCCO—Cornelius P. Korthe, age, 27, native of California, and Elma C. Dirocco, age, 23, native of Iowa, both residents of Redondo.

Justice of the Peace L. F. Wells had two cases before him this week, one a plain drunk and the other for vagrancy. Both principals were given ten days in which to meditate on the way of the transgressor.

UNITY IS POSTPONED

Plan for the Consolidation of Los Angeles and San Pedro is Abandoned.

Members of the consolidation commission, disgusted and sore at heart, definitely decided last night to abandon the plan for the consolidation of Los Angeles and San Pedro. Therefore there will be no election March 14 to enable voters to pass on the proposition. The law committee of the commission has been instructed to ascertain the legal problems to be encountered in disincorporating Wilmington, a city of the sixth class. This will give Los Angeles a harbor of its own, and a large one, too. It long has been understood that Wilmington desired to become a part of Los Angeles, and as the "shoe string" strip recently annexed to the city abuts Wilmington, the harbor privileges sought in a merger with San Pedro will be had there. Following are the resolutions passed by the commission last night, setting forth the reason for the abandonment of the Los Angeles-San Pedro consolidation plan:

"Whereas, until the legislature passes the enabling act asked for by this commission, and indorsed by the various civic bodies of Los Angeles, the board of supervisors, the city council and the entire community, by which the consolidation of Los Angeles and San Pedro can be legally accomplished, and, whereas, upon advice from the city attorney of Los Angeles and the law committee of this commission, it is necessary to suspend further proceedings for such consolidation; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we recommend that further procedure for the consolidation of Los Angeles and San Pedro be suspended until requisite legislation be enacted by the legislature."—News.

AT THE CHURCHES

THE WEEKLY SERMON.

As Delivered Last Sunday by Rev. H. K. Vann, at the Methodist Church.

Sunday morning at the Methodist Church the pastor, Rev. H. K. Vann, spoke on "The Spirit of the Sabbath," taking his text from Exodus 20:8, and saying in part:

The Sabbath day to the Christian is a day of joy and gladness—a time of rest; of freedom; of reflection. He is transported into a new world and setting aside the material things he can draw near to God through prayer, the word and the services of praise.

The word Sabbath is oftentimes misunderstood. It never means seventh. It is true that as a rule it came after six secular days, but it was never designated as meaning seventh. Shebii, the Hebrew word for seventh, is never used as a substitute for the word Sabbath, meaning Sabbath. That Sabbath means seventh in an exact astronomical series is refuted by the fact that the Hebrews, by divine order, had two Sabbaths in one week in the month Tisri—the 8th and 10th—both being Sabbaths. Lev. 23-24 to 32. Neither geography nor astronomy support the seventh day idea. Two persons circumnavigating the earth in opposite directions, approaching within a moment of the 180 degree, find that each have a different day for the Sabbath, and neither agrees with the resident there. Which is keeping the Sabbath? If all three, then the Sabbath is a movable festival, accommodating itself to the notions of the planet. If none are right, then no person can keep the day unless he happens to be living on the exact line on which the day was instituted.

"God, through Moses, gave the children of Israel a system of fixed date Sabbaths, which changed once every year between the Exodus and the Crucifixion to a different day of the week, and hence Saturday or the seventh day, never was a Jewish Sabbath for over a year at any one time until after the destruction of Jerusalem under Titus."

The word means a saved and proper name by which God designated a day set apart for exceptional and primarily sacred uses. Such a day falls under the text.

The Roman Sabbath week was eight days long and in order to avoid confusion with the calendar of the rapidly increasing Christians, Constantine, in the fourth century A. D., legalized the Christian Sabbath by transferring the Pagan Nundinas to Sunday. Theodorius found this idea of two calendars confusing and suppressed the Roman Nundinae, accepting the Christian Sabbath as the Roman Sunday or legal rest day.

From that time the day has been adopted by the world until now it is fixed by custom and idea. It is in every sense the Lord's day, marking His rest after the completion of His work and His resurrection. He reappeared on this day, and again came on this day in the fire at Pentecost. That the day should be adopted by all is essential to avoid confusion of commerce, business and social relations. Coming as the Sabbath it falls under the command: "Keep it Holy."

It is necessary to keep the Sabbath holy for the principles of Christianity rises and falls with it. The spread of the Gospel through the Sabbath schools, the churches, and the reassuring of spiritual relations with the Almighty depend on the observance of this day. Take a community without its Sabbath and it is a nest of crime and wickedness. All enemies of God join hands in endeavoring to overthrow this day. If Christianity is worth retaining one must hold the Sabbath. Without the Sabbath there is no Christian ethics, no just laws, no civil liberty. The Sabbath is an American institution and should be regarded and held sacred as such by every true American.

If the day is not retained as a holy day, it will degenerate into a holiday. It will mean a casting off of morals, and the harming of all industry. Thousands turned loose on that day, if not elevated through the holiness of the day, will degenerate through its evil keeping. Too often it is used in our big cities as a day of sin and shame; so much so that oftentimes there is more crime recorded for the Sabbath than all of the other days of the week combined. Even Redondo has its increased drinking through open saloons, and the perverting of morals through open pool rooms, real estate offices, etc. The Sunday excursion curse has even reached Redondo, taking the minds of men from their Maker, and their hearts from His praise.

Look at France of the past century as a land without the Sabbath. Testimonials from prisoners lay the blame for their downfall on a desecrated Sabbath. Find in your Monday paper the fearful price we are paying for an unholy Sabbath. Nature demands this day of change as even France found out, but even nature shudders at the wrecked bodies and minds of a falsely kept day. Conditions are becoming so much worse that we must pay attention. We are too careless regarding the principles at stake. The salvation of the Sabbath rests with us, and we cannot expect God's blessing unless we keep His day holy.

Let all Christians truly observe the day by refraining from all unnecessary work; by making it a day of worship before God; by demanding the restoration of the Sabbath to all men, and thus save some of the 250,000 who go into premature graves every year because we have robbed them of their day of rest. Boldly proclaim your convictions; give others; and demand for yourself a Sabbath view that reaches unobstructed even unto the throne of God.

One Frederick Faulkner was arrested last week and tried in the justice court of South Pasadena for disturbing the peace of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. A pretty stiff sentence, but the provocation was great, and the prisoner practically admitted his guilt, remarks the South Pasadena.

With the closing of the tomato crop in the La Habra valley came the opening of the winter peas season; this latter vegetable proving a big money maker this year. At present from 10 to 12 cents per pound is being received by the growers. Among the biggest producers are the Japanese ranchers of the valley. The business acumen of the little brown men was shown by their selection a year or two ago, of a big tract of frostless foothill land near there, and from this they daily send to the Los Angeles markets hundreds of pounds of high-grade peas.

Water as Nerve Food.

"If nervous women would only drink more water they would not be so nervous," remarked a trained nurse the other day, according to Health.

"Nearly every physician will recommend a woman who is suffering from nervous prostration or nervous exhaustion to drink lots of water between meals, but many women who do not come under a doctor's care would feel better and look better if they would drink, say, a quart of water in the course of a day. Water is a nerve food. It has a distinctly soothing effect when sipped gradually, as one can test for oneself."

Meat Chopper Hint.

No matter how carefully the meat chopper may be kept, it will be found very difficult to avoid blackening any vegetable that may be put in after meat. The different parts of the machine should every now and then be separated and boiled after the meat has been chopped, but before doing this a little bread should be put through the mincer, as this will clean the interior perfectly.

Fruit Salad.

Chop apples, bananas and white grapes (removing the seeds and skins) in small pieces, mix with mayonnaise dressing and, after scooping out the interior of fine red apples, fill with the mixture. The stem end of the apple should be neatly cut off in a round slice and put on when the apple is filled.

All It Needed.

"I made this potato salad for you myself," smiled she. "Isn't it delicious?"

"It would be," assented her husband, "if you had put a little more oil and vinegar and pepper and mustard seed and horseradish in the dressing and introduced a sliced egg or two and a few white onions and left half of the potatoes out."

FULL O' KNAVES

(Original.)

After Tom Hazeltine sold Billy Nutting a doped horse for $100 that returned to skin and bone as soon as he failed to get his meals of arsenic Billy was trying to "get it back" on Tom. You see, we fellows all understood one another, and no one of the gang spared another. After a fellow had been sold he laughed with the rest and bided his time to get even. But Hazeltine stuck Nutting for a larger amount than we fellows liked to see, and we were ready to help him recover it from the man who took it out of him. Billy was very nice about it. He joined in the laugh at his expense, sent the horse to a fertilizing factory and pocketed his loss—that is, temporarily.

We used to meet at each other's rooms after business hours for a small game of poker before dinner. One afternoon when we were at Billy's rooms, each with a pile of chips before us, there was a ring at the bell, and an Italian came in with a parrot for sale.

"Don't want any parrots," said Billy impatiently. "Whose deal?"

"I have vera good parrot," said the Italian. "You lika him vera much."

"Don't want him," said Billy. "Get out!"

"Shut up!" shrieked the parrot. "You impudent little villain!" exclaimed Billy.

This changed the interest from the game to the parrot. The Italian was called upon to get him out of his box and make him perform.

"Ante up," croaked the parrot. "Polly," said Hazeltine, "pretty poll! What 'y' got for a show down?"

"Full o' knaves," croaked the parrot.

There was a laugh, and some one asked the parrot if he had anything else, but the bird only had one answer for all—"Full o' knaves."

"You're dead right," remarked one of the party. "There's more knavery in this gang than in a dozen jailbirds." "Deal the cards," the parrot suddenly blurted out, rubbing his beak with his claw and following the injunction with a lot of parrot cawings.

"By Jove," exclaimed Hazeltine, "he is a rare bird to have on hand for a poker party! He'd make no end o' fun. What you want for him?"

"Tell the gentleman your price, Poll," said the Italian.

"Two cents," said the parrot.

"No, no!" interposed the owner. "Try again. Your price—your price."

"Seventy-five dollars."

"Great Scott!" exclaimed Billy. "Seventy-five dollars for a parrot?"

The Italian shrugged his shoulders.

"Put him up at auction," said Billy. "with $75 a minimum."

The Italian agreed, the bird was put up, and Billy started the bidding by offering $25. Hazeltine, who was thinking what a treasure the bird would be at his own poker parties, offered $30, and the bidding became spirited. In a few minutes the price was run up to the limit, but none of the bidders seemed inclined to give way to the others. Eighty, eighty-five, ninety, were bid successively. At the last figure all dropped out except Billy Nutting and Tom Hazeltine, who continued to top each other $2 a bid. At ninety-five Hazeltine showed signs of weakening.

"Don't take water, Tom," whispered one of the party. "The bird's worth $200. There are plenty of parrots, but I never saw one that could talk like that."

"Ninety-six!" cried Hazeltine.

"Raise it to ninety-seven," from Nutting.

"Ninety-eight!" from Hazeltine.

"Ninety-nine!" from Nutting.

"One hundred!" from Hazeltine.

"Sold!" cried the Italian. "You tuka da bird, I tuka da money."

There was a roar of laughter in which every one present joined except the successful buyer, who, taking fright at once, looked at the company with wonder and inquiry.

"Point up!" cried the parrot.

This reassured the purchaser. He took a roll of bills from his pocket and handed $100 to the Italian, who made no delay in getting out.

"Come, Poll," said Billy; "show your owner what a bargain he's made. Talk about the game of poker."

Polly was silent.

"Tell us about those knaves you were mentioning."

The parrot manifested no interest in the subject, sitting stupidly on her perch. Each one of the party tried in turn to make her talk, but failed. Hazeltine, who had not yet got on to the sell, remarked that parrots were like children—they often wouldn't talk to strangers without their fathers or mothers egging them on. As soon as Poll got used to her new master she'd show up flue. So he took the bird home, and after he had gone we laughed till we all had side ache.

Weeks passed before Hazeltine would admit that his parrot was dumb as a lamp post. He had meanwhile spent a lot of money on a parrot teacher, who failed signally to get the bird to utter a single word. Finally Hazeltine sold the bird for a dollar and, having made up his mind that a trick had been played on him, asked how it had been done, whereupon he was informed that Billy had bought the bird for a song and had hired a ventriloquist to bring it to his rooms and make it talk just like a human being. Billy had recovered the hundred dollars Tom had taken out of him minus $10 he had paid the ventriloquist for his services.

Tom enjoyed the joke hugely, and now he is watching an opportunity to get it back on Billy.

BEVERLY WORTHINGTON.

A Mother's Argument.

"The most to be regretted act of my life," says a commander of the navy, "was a letter I wrote to my mother when about seventeen years of age. She always addressed her letters to me as 'my dear boy.' I felt at that time I was a man, or very near it, and wrote saying that her constant addressing me as a 'boy' made me feel displeased. I received in reply a letter full of reproaches and tears. Among other things, she said: 'You might grow to be as big as Goliath, as strong as Samson and as wise as Solomon; you might become ruler of a nation or emperor of many nations, and the world might revere you and fear you, but to your devoted mother you would always appear in memory in your innocent, unpretentious, unself concealed, unimperturbed babyhood. In those days when I washed and dressed and kissed and worshipped you, you were my idol. Nowadays you are becoming part of a gross world by contact with it, and I cannot bow down to you and worship you, but if there are manhood and maternal love transmitted to you, you will understand that the highest compliment that mother love can pay you is to call you 'my dear boy.'"

Some Old Time Giants.

Cajanus, a Swedish giant who was nine feet high, was on exhibition in London in 1742, and several old handbills still exist which set forth the measurements of this freak of nature. Thirty years later we have Charles Byrne, who was eight feet four inches in height in his stockinged feet. He, however, died young, at the age of twenty-two, from hard drinking. Cotter O'Byrne, another Irish giant, followed a few years later. He was born at Kinsale in 1761 and at the age of fifteen was eight feet high. This by the time he was twenty-three had increased to nine feet four inches, and then he changed his name to O'Brian in order to make people think that he was descended from King Brian Borlome and went on exhibition. At that business he, of course, soon realized a very comfortable fortune and retired, dying at Clifton on Sept. 8, 1804. His will especially provided that his body should be thrown into the sea in order to prevent the surgeons from cutting it up.

No Rhyme for Tipperary.

A poet once jumped to the conclusion that there was no rhyme to Tipperary and said so, whereupon an indignant Irishman, who chanced also to be a bit of a versifier, pounced upon him and poked fun at him in a lengthy poem, every other line of which rhymed or was supposed to rhyme with the place in question. Thus:

A bard there was in sad quandary
To find a rhyme for Tipperary.
Long labored he through January,
Yet found no rhyme for Tipperary;
Toiled every day in February,
But searched in vain for Tipperary;
Searched Hebrew text and commentary,
But searched in vain for Tipperary.

And so on through many scores of stanzas, ending up with:

He paced about his aviary,
Burnt in despair his dictionary,
Blew up sky high his secretary,
And then in wrath and anger aware he
There was no rhyme for Tipperary.

Glasses and the Eyes.

Every one knows that in using a field glass it is necessary to adjust it to a proper focus. Suppose that you put one of the tubes at your focus and the other tube at a focus that suited some one else and then you looked through both tubes. You would have a more or less blurred vision, and if you kept on looking the chances are that you would feel giddy and get a headache. Now, the two eyes are supposed to have an equal natural focus, and when by any chance that focus is unequal a headache results. The remedy is a pair of glasses or a single glass to make the eyes equal in power.

The Danes.

The Danes, or Northmen, first became prominent in European history in 783, when they began to ravage the north coast of France and southern shores of Great Britain. The daring of these hardy seamen was remarkable, for in their small ships they even penetrated the Mediterranean and became terrors to the seaboard population of Italy, Sicily and Greece. The first king of Denmark is said to have been Skjold, O. B. C.

Tolerance in Japan.

Westerners seem to find it inconceivable how the Japanese can maintain allegiance to different creeds at one and the same time. One broad explanation of this is that we as a nation are tolerant in mind, especially in matters pertaining to religion.—Japan Times of Tokyo.

Compromised Fee

antebellum days Oliver Otis, a lawyer just admitted to practicing, being physically delicate, con- sidered to take up his residence in Florida, where the climate is less than in the north. The slav- agitation was on, and the north- found making an entry either ly or professionally slow work. there is one field in which at the of twenty-three progress is never the field of love. Otis and An- te Le Bert, the daughter of a planter, met, and their hearts as readily as if there was no cloud gathering between their active sections.

while Antoinette's father had objection to Otis on account of be- a northerner, he had serious ob- jects to him on account of his pov- ous to him on account of his ar- at his new home had not $100 the world. Nevertheless Mr. Le was friendly to his daughter's r, probably because Otis was too ly to pay court to a girl he was able to marry. Indeed, Otis con- and marriage with Miss Le Bert impossible as did her father. Mr. Bert gave him what little law busi- he had and was impressed with ingenious methods the young man loyed to gain his ends.

one day Mr. Le Bert placed a col- ne for a goodly sum in the law- hands and in doing so said to Le Grand Bouvier, who owes me debt, is a fire eater of the worst. He hates a northerner as he snakes. He is a duelist, a dead and has killed several men under code duello. There is no lawyer about who will take the collection. amount is $13,000. If you will find ay to force or persuade him to pay you shall have half for a fee. But member you must exercise the great- care not to offend him, for if you he will challenge you, and if you re- him satisfaction sentiment here be against you, and you will have go elsewhere. Besides, I do not care antagonize Le Grand Bouvier my- not that I fear him, but we south- ers consider it beneath us to press claim for debt, especially from one our own class."

Otis took the papers in the case and d that he would look into it. He ther spoke to Mr. Le Bert about it Mr. Le Bert to him till one morning week later when the client rushed to Otis' office with a letter in his hand d threw it down before him. It read: "I have received an insulting letter in a young gutter snipe from the north manding payment of my indebtedness you in which he uses the word "dead- at" and accuses me of having obtained r property under "false pretenses." I ire to know if you assume responsibil- for the puppy's insults. I have the or to be your most obedient servant,
LE GRAND BOUVIER.

Le Bert expected to see Otis pale en he read the letter, but he did not. e wrote on the face of it:

My note was written without the knowl- ge of Mr. Le Bert, and I alone am re- sible for it.
OLIVER OTIS.

Handing it back to Le Bert, he re- med the work at which he was en- ed as if nothing unusual had oc- curred.

"Are you aware," asked Le Bert, "what this means?"

"Perfectly."

"Very well. If you want to get a hole you, go ahead."

That evening a gentleman with very back hair and eyes who spoke softly de creole dialect called upon Otis with a demand for satisfaction on the part of Bouvier. Otis asked if he could be expected to fight under the Louisiana code. The visitor said that he principal was so enraged that he would fight under any code, where- upon Otis said that in some states the code especially stipulated that there should be no meeting between two persons wherein one owed the other money; that he was personally interest- ed in the debt due from Mr. Bouvier, therefore his challenger was his debt- or. He could not accept any challenge from Mr. Bouvier until the debt had been paid.

The visitor departed, and nothing more was heard of the affair for ten days, when Mr. Le Bert received a check for the full amount of his claim with interest. The payment had not been made five minutes when Mr. Bouvier's second called at Otis' office. Mr. Le Bert came in at the same mo- ment with his check. The second po- sely informed Otis that, there being nothing in the way of the meeting, his principal expected it would take place without delay.

Then Otis placed his hand on his heart, made a profound bow and said: "May I ask you to convey to Mr. Bouvier my sincere and humble apol- ogy? I supposed him to be what I called him, but I see I was mistaken. I have proof in the payment of this debt that he is an honorable man."

The creole looked surprise through his soft black eyes, bowed, turned and left the office. And that was the last of the prospective duel between Oliver Otis and Le Grand Bouvier.

That afternoon Mr. Le Bert sent

Otis a check for $6,683.74, exactly half the amount of the collection. Otis re- turned it with a bill for legal services for $25. Mr. Le Bert strove in vain to induce him to accept the larger amount without success. Otis averred that it was not in the north con- sidered at that time professional to take cases on shares. The matter was finally compromised by the check be- ing drawn to Miss Le Bert for a pres- ent on her wedding with Otis. Le Grand Bouvier sent a clock of the time of Louis XV.

WILL BE A MODEL.

New Department Store for Los Angeles—Bullock's Opens Soon.

The opening of Bullock's department store at Seventh and Broadway in Los Angeles will give to the people of Southern California one of the most modern store buildings west of Chicago, with an equipment second to no similar institution in any of the large eastern cities.

A representative of this paper visited the new store (which, by the way, will be open for business in a few days) and found an amazingly complete store building, in which many ideas that are new to this section of the country are being carried out. The Palm Garden and children's skyline play ground, located on the roof, is a decided innovation, and is sure to prove popular with both visitors and shopping tourists. From the palm garden one may overlook the surrounding buildings, and may obtain an unobstructed view of the entire country, from mountain to seashore. The play ground will naturally attract the little folks, as it will be fitted out with hobby horses, swings and many other devices for the entertainment of the youngsters.

Almost the entire seventh floor will be used for an immense restaurant, where a first-class menu will be served at popular prices; and the lunch counter patron has not been slighted. Then there is a men's grill, which will undoubtedly be well patronized. In fact, the management has evidently considered the wants of the epicure as well as the needs of the shopper. The kitchen is as large as many hotel dining rooms.

A unique feature on the third floor is a barber shop, where a man may stop and get a shave and hair cut, if he desires, while his wife is attending to her shopping; or, a mother may have her boy's hair cut while she is doing her trading. The arrangement of departments is very pleasing; starting with the house furnishing goods and kitchen ware in the basement, which is one of the most attractive salesrooms we have ever seen, being light, spacious and splendidly ventilated. The same can be said of the entire seven floors. One of the most important and pleasing features of this store is the great area of plate and prismatic glass, which lets in floods of California sunshine on every floor.

The general and business offices, located on the seventh floor, promise to be beyond the ordinary store offices in point of arrangement and furnishings.

The big show windows are the finest on the Coast and will no doubt form a great attraction to the public. The merchandise now being received bears the trade mark of well known high grade makers, and every line of goods will be of the best.

The opening date has not been announced, but the public is assured an elaborate reception. Los Angeles has many show places, but none, in our opinion, that will appeal to more people than Bullock's, Seventh and Broadway.

THE TRUTHFUL LYRE.

It may sound paradoxical to say that "The Louisville Lyre" tells the truth, but no Kansas editor will doubt the genuineness of the following:

"As only one of the proprietors is at home this week we apologize for all mistakes made and say they were inexcusable, as all an editor has to do is to hunt news and clean rollers and set type, sweep the floor and write short items and fold papers, and talk to visitors and write wrappers and make the paste and mail the papers and carry and saw wood and read the proof, hunt the shears and dodge the bills and be joshed by the whole town."—Kansas City Journal.

THE THEATRES.

Grand Opera House.

E. J. Carpenter's drama of the mining camps "At Cripple Creek" is the Grand Opera House offering for the week of February 24th. This is a melodrama of the old school, popular before Owen Davis and Theodore Kremer brought melodrama into disrepute. It was written by Hal Reid, which is another way of saying that there is something doing every minute. "At Cripple Creek" is a play with a plot. It has a real story, of interesting events, probable incidents and amusing episodes, presented by a company of capable actors. The scene is laid among the rugged beauties of the Colorado mountains, and the characters are those of the mining camps of twenty years ago. Accident and adventure—plot and counterplot interspersed with amusing comedy situations, miners, Indians and gamblers—these are the components of this real drama of the west in the days when the west was wild and woolly.

The Orpheum.

High class music, novel orchestration and odd scenic effects characterize the act of the Lasky-Roife Quintet, who are head-lined for the week of February 25th at the Orpheum. Their act is said to be the only one in vaudeville which has been rehearsed and staged by the famous composer, Victor Herbert.

Nellie Beaumont and her company offer a comedy entitled "My Busy Day," in which this clever comedienne is seen as an actress seeking a divorce. She is supported by Arthur Van and M. I. Zorn.

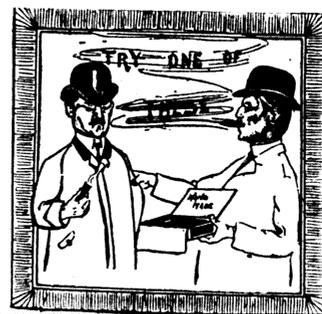

The eight Bedouin Arabs, whirlwind acrobats well known to Orpheumites, return for a two weeks' engagement. They will create the usual sensation.

Eleanor Falke, a dainty little singer who first appeared in the spotlight in "Floradora," comes with a program of songs as pretty and dainty as herself.

Patrice will repeat last week's success in a new playlet, "A New Year's Dream."

Little "Hip," Hickey and Nelson, and Happy Jack Gardner remain another week.

A tank car exploded last Thursday at Simons station, on the line of the Santa Fe railway, a few miles east of Downey. The loss was $5,000, and the watchman, D. K. Ausland, who was standing near the tank at the time of the explosion, was badly burned about the face.
